Personal and Social Skills

I am gifted with critical ability, a spirit of observation, and the ability to adapt to and understand realities different from my own.

I am able to express my point of view clearly and decisively, and I enjoy attending stimulating and educational contexts of all kinds.

I don't like to preclude myself a priori from unexplored paths, and I like to consider path difficulties as windows of opportunity and human and professional improvement.

I am able to work as part of a team, to assume positions of leadership and management as well as to spur my team to always give their best to achieve their goals.

I am comfortable interacting and dialoguing with any kind of audience, finding points of debate and discussion, and creating collaborative and long-lasting working ties.

I like to organize and plan each project in its entirety, carefully defining every detail because I am convinced that it is the nuances that make the difference between a good and an excellent result.

I love to bring my work to completion with care, commitment and heart.
